

Analyzing Intersectionality Context

This is a tool for many purposes: informing analyses, strategies, stakeholder and power mapping and supplementing risk assessments and planning.

Agency, commitment, knowledge, and skills Name two to three major aspects of individual and family life and expectations that currently affect the wellbeing and rights of those most marginalized. Ensure you reflect on intra-household differences	Access to and control over resources and opportunities Name two to three major dynamics and actors that impact access and control over resources and opportunities for those most marginalized.
Laws, policies, programs, resource allocation, accountability mechanisms Name two to three major government policies, laws, institutions, or decision-makers that are currently affecting those most marginalized in your context.	Social norms, attitudes, exclusionary practices Name two to three major ideological and cultural forces and beliefs that are currently affecting key marginalized groups in your setting. What forms of exclusion, stigma and discrimination are present? What are the main factors behind the prevailing attitudes/behaviors? Think about the most marginalized within those marginalized groups